TORONTO, ONTARIO - Sept. 2, 2009 - Worldwide intelligence-based advisory firm Brendan Wood International (BWI) today announced its list of TopGun Portfolio Managers investing in Canadian equities as part of their mandate. Only 50 portfolio managers were selected from over 400 individuals nominated by BWI's Panel of the leading broker analysts. The prestigious award reflects those with the best grasp of the industries in which they invest and those with the most influence in the Canadian market.

BWI's Panel of Analysts consists of 200 of Canada's top sell-side analysts. Investigative debriefings with these analysts occur on an ongoing basis. The results are based upon the votes over the most recent 12 months. Portfolio managers selected as TopGuns were those with the greatest number of votes.

The 50 Nominated TopGun Portfolio Managers covering Canadian Equities are:

BWI's Partner in charge of Canada, Stewart Borden, commented, "Canadian sell-side analysts work countless hours throughout the year to advance the knowledge and investment insight of their portfolio management clients. Portfolio managers at Canada's largest asset management firms are a world class audience, many as well versed on world markets as they are on the Canadian domestic scene. Not easily impressed, Canada's all star analysts fight the good fight for the approval of this sophisticated big league investment clientele. It's great that, once a year, BWI is invited to turn the tables and ask the Brendan Wood Panel of Canada's leading sell-side analysts to nominate the portfolio managers who inspire them most and influence them at the deeper levels of investment analysis. The results amplify the importance of collaboration, inspiration and integrity in the critical relationship between portfolio managers and sell-side analysts in uprooting essential findings which help establish shareholder confidence in companies which deserve it."
